INTERNATIONAL TAXATION

SUMMER COURSE

June 28 – July 04, 2015

Summer Course International Taxation

In June 2015, Münster University and JurGrad gGmbH will offer the annual Summer Course International Taxation. Again, the faculty is composed of taxation experts from international law firms and universities.

Due to the increasing number of international business relations caused by a constantly advancing globalization, international taxation has become a vital part of today's business world. Not only multinational corporations but also small and medium-sized companies and freelancers are confronted with the increasing complexity of global markets. Cross border transactions raise a multitude of questions regarding taxation matters.

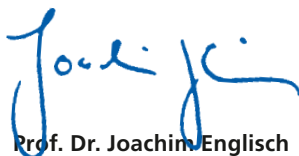

Within this context, the Institute of Tax Law and JurGrad offer a one week Summer Course covering the basic principles of international tax law, moving on to discuss selected topics in more detail:

The Introductory Course (28–30 June) aims to familiarize students and young professionals with the basics of international tax law and allows to benefit from the knowledge of lecturers with extensive international tax experience. The course will outline the basic concepts of international tax law as well as the fundamental principles of tax treaty law. Furthermore, an overview of special regimes will be given.

The following Advanced Course (01–03 July) intends to give participants an opportunity to gain greater understanding of various issues of international taxation: Academics and practitioners will discuss topics such as "Tax Challenges of the Digital Economy", "Partnerships in International Tax Law" and "US International Tax Policy" from different backgrounds and international perspectives.

All lectures will be held in English and may be attended separately.

We are looking forward to welcoming you among the participants!

Münster: Living between tradition and modern spirit

In October 2004 Münster received the LivCom Award in Canada officially confirming what the people of Münster already knew: that theirs is one of the most liveable cities in the world! The first large city in Germany to receive this award, the Westphalian metropolis bridges the gap between traditional and contemporary in its own extraordinary way. The well-known historic old town with its mediaeval buildings is a harmonious contrast to the modern architecture seen in the city's many new buildings.

Founded in 793, Münster has a long and illustrious history, the most famous and notable event of which is the Peace of Westphalia treaty of 1648 which after months of negotiation ended the Thirty Years' War. Today it is still possible to visit the historic 'Hall of Peace' located in the city's beautiful gothic City Hall. From there a walk along the famous 'Prinzpalmarkt' with its magnificent gabled buildings is a walk back to the time of the Hanse.

Münster's University, which is the largest employer of the region, was founded in 1780 and is one of the five largest universities in Germany. About 40.000 students take part in over 110 fields of study. The university's good reputation is particularly based on its law and business studies programs. The administration of the university is located today in the Prince Bishop's Castle in Münster. This outstanding structure was built by the architect Johann Conrad Schlaun whose baroque architecture can be seen in many other areas of the city.

Whoever comes to Münster immediately notices the spectacular amount of bicycles that are not only the vehicle of choice for getting from one seminar to another, but also used by those of every age. That this ubiquitous method of transportation forms a distinct part of the cityscape day and night is no surprise – there are about twice as many bicycles in Münster as there are inhabitants!

However, Münster has more to offer than just a university and countless bicycles. Those interested in culture keep returning to enjoy Münster's concerts, theatres and museums. Germany's only Picasso Museum can be found in the immediate vicinity of the "Kettelerschen Hof" where the seminar rooms and offices of JurGrad gGmbH are located.

In addition, the Westphalian metropolis has an extremely large selection of restaurants, cafes and pubs. The night-life in Münster is legendary – and not just for students. Especially popular for young and old is the 'Kuhviertel' at the edge of the old town, with its many small, carefully restored houses and traditional student pubs. On the other side of Münster is the newly developed harbor area on the Dortmund-Ems Canal where a 'trendy' stretch along the water contains numerous clubs, bars and discotheques.

Experience culture and enjoy a zest for life every day.

The Best of Theory and Practice

Founded in the summer of 2002, JurGrad gGmbH supports the academic and continuing education programs of the University of Münster in the areas of Law and Economics.

In order to optimally prepare our course participants for an excellent professional qualification in national and international areas, we cooperate with well-known lecturers from Germany and around the world who work in banks, business consultancies, finance courts, universities, as well as nationally and internationally operating law firms.

In this way, we are able to combine long-term experience and knowledge in the subject areas with up-to-date teaching and research.

The best of the best – for your professional success.
